Urban trees and urban forests are the ultimate in green infrastructure. Trees provide beauty and cooling; they help attenuate storm water, which cuts down on erosion and water pollution and they increase property values and protect streams.

The Cuyahoga River Remedial Action Plan has initiated the Cuyahoga ReLeaf effort, the goal of which is to restore and enhance forest canopy within the county and the Cuyahoga River watershed. The workshops will assist local governments, community leaders and watershed stewards in identifying areas where forest cover needs restoration, and in engaging support for restoration work.

Community leaders and civic activists are invited to participate in a forum in the watershed nearest to you. Watch for additional locations.
